

Dear Christians, I have a challenge for you...

It is perfectly acceptable and even virtuous to think critically about any faith based ideas which are silly, harmful and oppressive.

It is wise (and not disobedient) to refuse to be told what to think. Be your own person and care about what is actually true. Test it. Scrutinize it. Believe what turns out to be reality.

Dear Christians,

I have a little project for you. I want you to write a 10 page paper detailing your great-grandfather's friend's life. Any friend. I want you to write his exact words, his exact looks, and don't forget to talk about exactly what he did. Then, pick any 2 of your friends and have them write 10 pages of the same thing, or at least a continuance of where you left off.

Can't do it can you? You say that you don't know that person, even if your family talked about them?

Then why and how do you expect the story of Jesus to be real or even accurate? It is the same principle.

- Courtney Lynn

@CourtneyLynn26 on twitter

<http://authorCourtneyLynn.webs.com>

I am the author of children's books for little atheists/freethinkers. My works include "I'm An Atheist And That's OK", "It Is OK To Be A Godless Me", and "I'm A Little Thinker". I am a firm believer in promoting science and education to children, not indoctrination.

Prepared & made available at FreeAtheism.org

Dear Christians, I have a challenge for you...

It is perfectly acceptable and even virtuous to think critically about any faith based ideas which are silly, harmful and oppressive.

It is wise (and not disobedient) to refuse to be told what to think. Be your own person and care about what is actually true. Test it. Scrutinize it. Believe what turns out to be reality.

Dear Christians,

I have a little project for you. I want you to write a 10 page paper detailing your great-grandfather's friend's life. Any friend. I want you to write his exact words, his exact looks, and don't forget to talk about exactly what he did. Then, pick any 2 of your friends and have them write 10 pages of the same thing, or at least a continuance of where you left off.

Can't do it can you? You say that you don't know that person, even if your family talked about them?

Then why and how do you expect the story of Jesus to be real or even accurate? It is the same principle.

- Courtney Lynn

@CourtneyLynn26 on twitter

<http://authorCourtneyLynn.webs.com>

I am the author of children's books for little atheists/freethinkers. My works include "I'm An Atheist And That's OK", "It Is OK To Be A Godless Me", and "I'm A Little Thinker". I am a firm believer in promoting science and education to children, not indoctrination.

Prepared & made available at FreeAtheism.org